

I would like to comment on your reviewing of the limits of cross-ownership. Why not do what you really want to do and change the name of the FCC to the Dept. of Official Truth and then you can have one media outlet which will give us the truth as your government and corporate masters dictate to you and that will give you more time for back-slapping and you can continue on with your delusion that you've really strengthened democracy. Now isn't that simple?
